

Are you really spend your good time with your life?

Share and comment your thoughts if you can relate...

Time spent with Family

Time spent with Friends

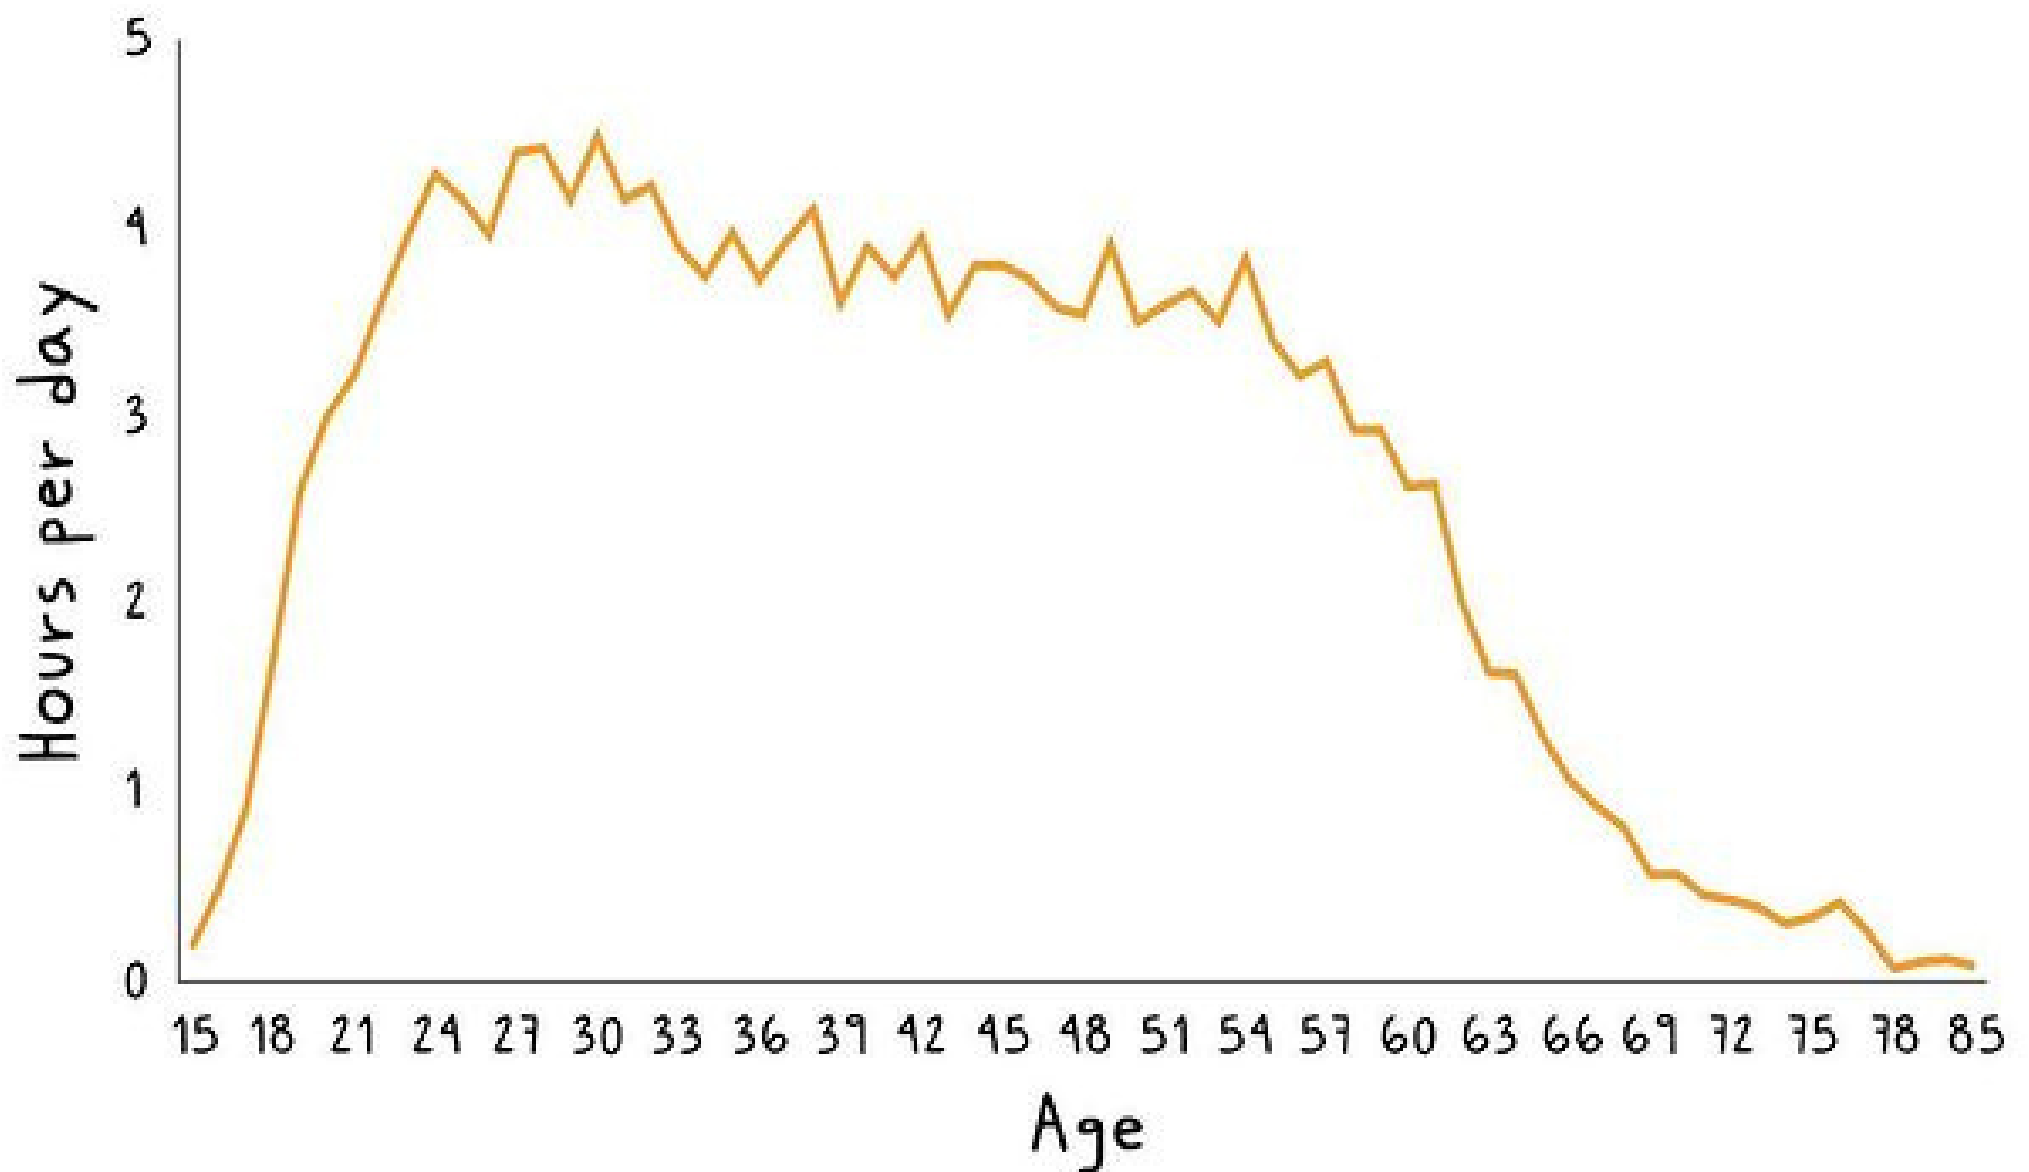

Time spent with partner

Time spent with children

Time spent with coworkers

Time spent alone

So use this as a reminder

- To cherish the limited time you have with your family
- To prioritize the real friendships you find
- To ever settle for a partner who isn't right for you
- To be present if you decide to have children
- That life is too short to work with people you can't stand
- And that alone time is the only constant, so make sure to love yourself
